

Secretariat Compared to Other Triple Crown Race Winners

Analysis

Looking at the data, you could put Secretariat in a race against any other horse since 1940 and he would win by a comfortable margin. The closest race he would have would be against Swiss Skydiver in the Preakness, but even then his time is almost three tenths of a second faster which is still a margin of almost a length and a half of a horse! His record in the Belmont Stakes race has never even closely been contended since.

I firmly believe that given the winning times data, Secretariat is the greatest racehorse to ever live. To have held the race track records for nearly a half of a century speaks volumes to his achievements and even with modern technology and nutrition increasing the average finishing times, he is still the fastest horse to ever race.
